

INDIANA COUNTY'S CHOICE

"Nick" Langham Doesn't Leave Any Doubt as to Where He Stands—One of Four Candidates.

(Special to THE STAR.)

Indiana, March 2.—The fight for the Republican nomination for Congress in this, the Twenty-seventh District, is waxing warm. There are already four candidates in the field, one from each county in the district, and possibly further announcements will be made. Prominent among those already out is J. N. Langham, of this place, formerly Assistant United States Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania, the senior member of the law firm of Langham & Elkin, and for many years Chairman of the Republican County Committee here.

Though Mr. Langham is assured the undivided support of the Republicans of his county, who are greater in number than those of any other county in the district, he does not desire any one to vote for him at the primaries next April under a misapprehension, and recently, in response to inquiries as to whether or not he was a candidate, and what were his views on certain matters in which the public is interested, he gave out the following statement:

Yes, I am a candidate, and will make an honest effort to secure a majority of the votes at the primaries in the district. Under the new Primary law is an open field and a majority of the voters must decide who their standard bearer shall be. It has been my ambition for several years to represent the district in Congress and feel that coming from the old sturdy Republican county of Indiana, whose equities are strong at this time, that I can with some assurance make my appeal to the voters of the district. I believe in the policies of the Republican party and am convinced that their maintenance will serve the best interests of the people of the district. I favor liberal pension laws, believing that the Nation can readily afford to extend substantial aid to its defenders in their declining years. If elected it would be my constant endeavor to see that every deserving soldier in the district got his just dues from the Government. I would also feel called on to use all reasonable efforts to secure such local improvements as the district is entitled to. It is the policy of the Government to sustain postoffice buildings where the conditions are favorable. The postoffice authorities have already made some purchases of land for this purpose. It seems to me that such buildings should have been in process of construction before this time, but it will be my constant endeavor to secure such appropriations as would be necessary to erect such buildings. I pledge myself to such action. I believe in and would use my efforts to promote careful and well considered legislation regulating the relations of corporations to the Government and the people. I believe in the greatest possible scope for individual effort and the right to the enjoyment of the honest fruits of such effort. Every citizen is entitled to equal protection before the law, whether rich or poor, great or small. The poor man is entitled to just as much protection for his small accumulations as the rich man is for his greater wealth. I believe in the dignity of labor and uphold the right of laboring men to organize for the protection of their lawful and just rights, recognizing the power for good in union organization under such wise leadership as was exemplified in the person of John Mitchell.

In a word, if elected to Congress, my desire and efforts would be to promote the local interests of the district, while at the same time not to neglect those greater questions which are agitating the country at large. To the solution of these wider questions I would lend my aid as a man who has lived close to the masses of the people and who has personal knowledge of their hopes, ambitions and needs.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BULLETIN

Editor-in-Chief, Graydon Robinson
Senior Reporter, Miss Best
Sophomore Reporter, Miss Dillman

Last year the Junior and Senior classes of the R. H. S. published an Annual, of which a good many of you are familiar. When we published the Annual we did not realize the task that we had undertaken. After we had put the book on the market we found that our troubles had just begun. Out of 150 Annuals we have only sold 60. This certainly reflects on the R. H. S. Alumni Association. We intend to put the books on sale at the school house Friday evening and would like your hearty support. We owe $66.00 to the Star Printing Co., of Meadville, Pa., and with your support we expect to pay it. Kindly buy one at the stand on the second floor. We will certainly appreciate it.

The last lecturer, the Hon. Willis Brown, is one of the best known men in legal circles in the United States to-day. He has been the means of bringing the "Boy Problem" into the place to which it belongs. He makes use of no officers in his dealings with the boys and yet there is not a single boy in Salt Lake City who will not come when Judge Brown summons him.

"One of Judge Brown's greatest innovations, which came to him unsolicited, was in having the State Educational Association adopt a new section called 'The Juvenile Court Section,' making him chairman of this part of the State educational effort. The Utah law is now recognized as the highest type of a Juvenile Court law, and not only has Judge Brown been instrumental in the establishment of like courts in six other cities, but its features are embodied in a bill now before Congress, and both England and France are using it as a basis of Juvenile Court law. He has been called to England to deliver a series of lectures on Juvenile Courts, and will spend the months of September and October to assist in establishing courts in the old world." Everybody in Reynoldsville should hear this great man. Assembly hall Friday evening, March 13.

Don't forget Book Night. Admission one book. There is hardly any one who cannot spare a book from their library.

"About their bodies they carried comfortably concealed spear heads." (?)

"Wholoped" 53-8. "Nuf sed."

And it rhymed with Right!

Miss Dora Reed entertained the class of '08 and the members of the faculty at her home last Friday night. The evening was greatly enjoyed by every one.

It rhymed with Purple.

The Seniors have gotten off the subject of ghosts. At present they are struggling with witches.

Tom thinks its better to make your mark than to be one.

Miss Milliren—Frankie, what is a rhythm?

It's a rhythm, isn't it?

Earle says its a great relief to a fellow who dreams his watch is gone to get up and find it going.

Spicy conversation should be handled gingerly, but seemingly some of the Sophs can throw it around any old way.

Did you ever take a bee line for home? Seems that Miss Coleman has, with the bees taking the same line.

Freshman—Say, what did the Indian children play with?

P-o-l-l and head are synonymous terms in the Freshmen class.

I wonder if we couldn't arrange a pulley to convey our basket ball players up and down stairs after a game.

Monday is a very poor time to test the Seniors on the amount of their preparation—since Sunday is the day we put our books under the bed and don't get there ourselves.

Some one said, not long ago, that all one needed to be a H. S. graduate was a slouch hat and a pair of high topped shoes. That person evidently never passed our homes at 2 15 a. m. when we were up trying to fathom the thoughts of the brilliant men who wrote Virgil or Wilhelm Tell.

Teacher—I wonder why I can't retain the attention of this class. It surely isn't because you think you do not need the explanations.

Uninterested Listener—Please, ma'am, if you will just mention Falls Creek I think you may be able to interest them.

Did you ever notice what a thin bunch those Juniors are?

Yes, I wonder why it is?

You evidently never saw them lugging encyclopedias around or you would not ask. Why, two of the members were unable to continue the heavy work. They had to stop school.

To the Voters of Jefferson County.

On Saturday, April 11th, 1908, the voters of the Democratic party will, by their ballots, select one candidate to represent them on the Board of County Commissioners. Realizing the right of each voter to know the qualifications and general reputation of the aspirants for that office, it has seemed expedient to me, and but fair to the voters, that I furnish them with some proof of my qualifications for the office for which I am a candidate.

A personal interview with each voter would be preferable to me, but I am aware that that would be impossible. Therefore, I have decided to address an open letter to the voters and let my endorsement come from men whose names in their respective communities, stand for honesty and good citizenship, and for whom I have been employed or have been "associated with in business. With this in view, I have requested them for a recommendation and in response to my request, they have forwarded to me the following, with permission to use the same.

CHAS. M. DINGER.
"We take pleasure in saying that we have been intimately acquainted with Charles M. Dinger, of Reynoldsville, Pa., for a number of years, and have had an opportunity to learn his traits as a man. In all our business relations with him, we have found him to be courteous, affable, straightforward trustworthy and honest. We believe him to be well qualified to fill the office of County Commissioner, and we feel, that in the event of his election, he would be a faithful servant of the people and would honestly and conscientiously discharge the duties of the office."

Cultivate Happiness and Cheerfulness.

Circumstances have very little to do with human happiness. If the soul is bright and cheery a simple flower on the window sill will give us pleasure, whereas to the soul that has formed the habit of fault-finding, a whole conservatory can furnish no enjoyment. There are people who would not be satisfied if they were seated next to the throne in heaven; and there are others who have that within them which would make even a corner in purgatory comfortable. Strive to cultivate happiness and contentment, also cultivate cheerfulness. One who deliberately cultivates a disposition to throw care to the winds soon becomes an indispensable person to his friends. Care is worry, pure and simple. The burden that causes us to worry is heavy enough in all probability, without adding to it that of all engrossing care, which never lets the mind rest for an instant.—Ridge-way Advocate.
